Based on the outcome of Stage One and operational requirements, FBR has finalized the required solution architecture for Stage Two.

The Stage-Two solution shall provide an end-to-end four stage automated production monitoring and verification solution for the Iron and Steel Sector, commencing from the counting of billets and/or ingots, followed by measurement of the diameter of steel products at the die-cast/rolling stage, counting of finished steel rods at the cooling bed, and culminating in the verification of the final dispatched weight through integration with the weighbridge of the steel manufacturing unit. The solution shall ensure automated capture, recording, and reconciliation of production data across all designated intervention points. The solution shall provide secure transmission of production data to FBR and a web-based dashboard for real-time monitoring, reporting, reconciliation and audit.

2. The vendors are required to submit proposals for the finalized four stage solution for the Production Monitoring of Iron and Steel, at a minimum:

 - Automated counting of finished steel rods/bars at the cooling bed through third AI Video analytic Camera including identification and recording of production quantities against the relevant product size/diameter, where applicable;
 - Automated capture and verification of the final weight of steel products through integration (hard or soft) with the existing weighbridge(s) of the steel manufacturing unit, including recording of relevant weighment and dispatch information;

- Recording of each production and dispatch event with appropriate date, time, steel unit, production line, production/intervention point, product type/size and other prescribed identifiers;
- Secure local processing, buffering and transmission of production and weighbridge data to FBR, ensuring continuity of data capture during temporary connectivity interruptions;
- A web-based dashboard providing authorized FBR users with real-time visibility of billet/ingot production, diameter measurements, finished steel rod/bar counts, weighbridge data, production and dispatch quantities, system status, alerts, analytics and audit information;
- Automated reconciliation of data captured at different production intervention points, including billet/ingot counts, product dimensions, finished steel rod/bar counts and final weighbridge measurements, to identify abnormal variations or discrepancies; and
- Tamper-resistant and audit-ready records, including appropriate system logs, video/electronic evidence where applicable, and system-generated alerts for device failure, camera/sensor obstruction, weighbridge integration failure, connectivity failure, unauthorized interference or other abnormal conditions; and Procuring agencies, while engaging in procurements, shall ensure that the procurements are conducted in a fair and transparent manner, the object of procurement brings value for money to the agency and the procurement process is efficient and economical”.

Since the proposed arrangement involves a variety of solutions across the system, it incorporates the broadest possible specifications as per Rule 10 of PPR, 2004. Accordingly, the entire procurement process and structure align with these principles and the relevant provisions of PPR, 2004, including but not limited to Rules 15, 21, 23, 29, and associated rules. The translation of these provisions has been included in the bidding document. To accommodate the scale of the industry and prevent exclusivity with a single authorized vendor (while expediting implementation), multiple authorized vendors are being engaged to promote competition and provide businesses the opportunity to work with various eligible vendors.

The following specific data for introducing a range of authorized vendors for supply, installation and maintenance of production monitoring system in Iron and Steel sector (including hardware and software) for production monitoring in Iron and Steel sector shall complement, supplement, or amend the provisions in the Instructions to Bidders (ITBs). SECTION V: SCOPE OF WORK

A. SCHEDULE OF REQUIREMENTS

FBR intends to ensure all iron and steel manufacturing facilities in Pakistan are covered as per the following installation schedule:

Cumulative 20% lines to be covered by: 31st October 2026

Cumulative 50% lines to be covered by: 30th November 2026

B. TECHNICAL REQUIREMENT

A. Background
01.	The FBR is undertaking a significant digitalization initiative aimed at enhancing its tax collection capabilities and addressing structural gaps in Pakistan’s tax system.
	As part of this transformation, FBR seeks to deploy a production monitoring and counting system at all Iron and Steel manufacturing facilities (Melting Units, Re-Rolling units or Composite Units) in Pakistan to improve tax compliance and prevent revenue leakage within the sector, particularly in the handling of Billets, Ingots, Rebars, sheets and Girders. As part of the agreement, selected vendors will be responsible for providing and installing a production monitoring system (based on AI Video Analytics, Weighbridge integration, or equivalent technologies). Vendors will also be responsible for providing post-installation maintenance and tech support services to the manufacturers. FBR recognizes the critical role of technology in tackling the challenges of tax evasion, unreported production, and discrepancies in steel production data. This production monitoring project aims to deliver real-time visibility into the total production of steel manufacturers. The solution will enable FBR to monitor the production count ensuring accurate reporting, transparent audits, and correct tax payments. A panel of multiple authorized vendors will provide manufacturers access to a pool of competitive vendors.

B. Business Functions and Performance Requirement

01. Business Requirements to Be Met by the Information System

The solution specified in this bid document will detect, count, and record production units (e.g., Billets, Ingots, Rebars, Steel rods, sheets) on the Installation Points, reporting the number of units for each product type produced in steel manufacturing facilities. It will then store the recorded data in a local server and transmit it to FBR's system.

FBR will access the data and should have access to an interactive dashboard. The user can filter by Product Type, SKU produced, time frame, and information of the company (e.g., site, Installation Point). The user can analyze data and compare it to reported quantities by the manufacturer.

The dashboard shall enable FBR to analyze production trends, perform reconciliation and comparative analysis, and compare system-recorded production figures with quantities reported by the hatchery operator, supporting transparent audits and accurate tax assessment.

The solution comprises the following components:

a. Capture data: Hardware inputs such as Industrial Cameras, Laser Sensors, or IoT-enabled Weighing integrations will be employed to detect the passing of steel products (e.g., glowing billets on a continuous casting machine or rebars on a cooling bed) and count them.

b. Ingest, transform and load data: Sensors/Cameras will be connected to an Industrial PC (IPC), which will ingest the data collected and allocate it to a database with an associated timestamp. The IPC will perform data cleaning to remove duplicate or irrelevant entries (e.g., differentiating between scrap movement and actual production).

c. Store data: The processed database shall be stored locally on the IPC for a defined buffer period, as specified by FBR, to ensure data integrity, redundancy, and continuity in the event of connectivity interruptions.

d. Connect data: Data will be securely published to an internet-based instance, such as a server or cloud-based application. Internet access will be provided by the manufacturing plant, and the system will incorporate cybersecurity features mandated by the FBR, including VPN access.

e. Visualize data: User-friendly interface will be provided with interactive buttons to enable filtering of data based on parameters such as time frame or Product Type.

The Operational Acceptance Tests during Commissioning will be conducted as specified in the SCC, the Technical Requirements and/or the Agreed and Finalized Project Plan. At the FBR's discretion, Operational Acceptance Tests may also be performed on replacement Goods, upgrades and new version releases, and Goods that are added or field-modified after Operational Acceptance of the System.
